HOOVER EXPRESSES PROSPERITY FAITH FOR PORTO RICANS

Sympathizes With Them In Their Economical Plight

ISLAND HIT VERY HARD

Progress of Porto Rico Under American Flag Has Been Steady"

By George E. Durno

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

SAN JUAN, P. R., Mar. 24.—Sympathy for the economical plight of the Islanders and high faith in their future prosperity and happiness under the American Flag was expressed by President Hoover today in an address to the Porto Rican legislature.

Hoover's speech to the legislature was at the culmination of his two day visit here during which he made an inspection of the Island conditions and discussed them with Governor Theodore Roosevelt.

"Porto Rico has been tremendously hard hit economically by the hurricane three years ago which brought great devastation throughout the island and before there was any appreciable recovery from that catastrophe the Islanders were hit again by the world wide depression, but these ravages will be repaired by time," the President told the legislature.

"Discouraging as these disasters may be at this moment, we know they are but passing events in our history; that with the courage of your people their effects will be overcome and our nation and this Island will resume their march to prosperity and progress."

"The progress of Porto Rico since it came under the American flag has been steady," he reminded the legislature. He addressed them as "my fellow American Citizens."

"Our nation is proud of the progress made by the people of Porto Rico," he said.

"Porto Rico has magnificently shown what it is capable of and what its people may accomplish under their institution. You have shown courage and initiative. You have in this single generation since joining our citizenship, increased more than 66% in population, increased 500% in material wealth and over 800% in attendance in public schools. You have discouraged illiteracy by almost 50% and the death rate has been diminished by more than 60%. I know of no finer development than that of the people of this Island and from their gaining wealth have built up from a few public schools to a great system of several thousand schools, colleges and universities which today accommodate over 200,000 scholars."

"You are temporarily suffering not only the loss from the devastating hurricane of 1928, but you are involved with us all in the world wide business depression."

"In Washington, we are sensitive of these many serious difficulties with which you are stricken. It has been the policy of the Federal Government to contribute more liberally to the development of Porto Rico in this period of her up-growth toward the problem of liberty that has been given to our states."

A number of opinions were handed down in several courts and other miscellaneous business was transacted previous to the opening of the civil trial term which started shortly before noon.

Anna Podhorodecki, of Bucksville, was granted a divorce from Anthony Podhorodecki, whose present address is unknown. The divorce was granted on grounds of desertion that took place eleven years ago.

Or grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment, Blanche A. Joseph, of Hilltown township, was granted a divorce from Frank H. Joseph, of 523 North Broad street, Lansdale. Among the charges were that Joseph called his wife "vile names, struck her and injured her with his fist."

Marguerite Brown, of South Langhorne, was granted a divorce from Andrew J. Brown, of Reading, on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment.

On grounds of desertion, Lulu Fretz Brunner, of Pipersville, was granted a divorce from Norman Scott Brunner, of Doylestown.

In another opinion of the Court of Common Pleas, Judge Boyer directed that in the case of Minot J. Hill against William Eisenberg and Sons, Inc., the motion for the petition for judgment for want of sufficient affidavit of defense is dismissed.

An opinion in the Court of Common Pleas handed down by Judge Keller directs that in the case of John Worrall and Margaret Worrall against Daniel E. Funk and Irvyn M. James, that the bill be dismissed at the cost of the plaintiffs.

Auditors' reports were filed today in the Orphans' Court in the estate of Alvy C. Balling, deceased, of Buckingham township, and Abraham Livezey, deceased, of Yardley.

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 24.—New airplanes, representing an investment of $2,500,000, will be started in the Detroit area sometime this spring.

The Detroit Aircraft Corporation is awaiting Congressional appropriation for the construction of a $5,000,000 dirigible for the U. S. Army.

Continental Motor Company has almost completed negotiations for a $300,000 order for airplane engines.

Ford Motor Company is spending thousands of dollars experimenting with a 34-passenger airplane transport.

Buhl Airplane Company has marketed a new light plane, carrying a price tag of $1,100.

Stinson Motor Company, though revealing no figures, declared orders have been booked far in advance. It recently added a large addition to its local plant.

The Packard Motor Company has invested thousands of dollars in developing a Diesel airplane motor. It will be marketed soon.

Thousands of dollars already are being expended in arrangements for the National Aircraft show here April 11 to 19. It will cover 200,000 square feet of floor space; number at least 200 exhibits; represent untold industrial wealth.

Michigan's Legislature has created a State Board of Aeronautics, comprising five members, to test the feasibility of establishing a chain of state-owned airports.

These, today, are the developments in the aviation industry in Michigan, according to a statewide survey conducted by International News Service.

Fallsington Woman Makes Particular Study of Etchings

OTHER COUNTY NEWS

Miss Rachel B. Carver, after spending several years as an art student with some of the leading teachers and having had her work in oils accepted for hanging in galleries of note, has of recent years made her particular study one of etching, for which she has received many prizes.

Miss Carver, a native of Fallsington, graduated from the Philadelphia School of Design for Women, afterward attending the Philadelphia Academy to study with William M. Chase, Thomas Anshutz and Cecilia Beaux.

Later she studied under the late Charles M. Hawthorne and Hugh Breckinridge, and in china painting with A. B. Cobden. At present she is studying etching with Mr. Bradshaw.

Miss Carver has etchings on display at the Brooklyn Society of Etchers, and in the Pennsylvania Academy, and has also been represented in many exhibitions in eastern states.

SCRANTON, Mar. 24—A swiftly moving mechanical age has resulted in such speed that few have taken to time to consider the destiny toward which they are racing. Dr. Everett Dean Martin, of the Cooper Union, told the Scranton Teachers' Institute here.

"There is confusion as to what education really is," Dr. Martin told his auditors. "In this age of mechanism we tend to develop the habits rather than the insight."

A return to the philosophy of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle was advocated by Dr. Martin, as well as the school. Contractors are now working on the school and will press the construction as rapidly as possible.

LANCASTER, Mar. 24—More than four thousand delegates will attend the sixty-fifth encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic here, June 7 to 13, it was announced here by the committee arranging for the sessions.

Every district of the state is expected to be represented at the gathering of the veterans.

Eastern Star Conducts Installation and Banquet

Flowers and palms graced the Travel Club Home where the installation services were held on Wednesday evening for Morning Star Chapter of the Eastern Star. The chapter met in special session at 6 o'clock for the purpose of installing newly-elected officers for the ensuing year.

The retiring worthy matron, Elsie F. Kepler, presided as installing officer; past junior matron, Margaret B. Smoyer, as installing marshal, both of whom are to be congratulated for the efficient manner in which they filled their offices.

Mrs. Ethel M. O'Dea was installed as worthy matron for the ensuing year, and was escorted to her station under an arch of ferns and roses. Before assuming the station, Mrs. Ida Johnson sang in her ever-charming manner, "In the Garden of Roses;" after which Mrs. Gladys Richardson invited the newly-elected worthy matron through the arch with words of welcome and best wishes.

John H. Myers was installed as worthy patron for the ensuing year; Mrs. Edna Brady, as associate matron; Mrs. Gladys Richardson, as conductress; Mrs. Hilda Wunsch, as associate conductress; and other officers to their respective stations.

At the close of the installation services the retiring worthy matron, Elsie F. Kepler, and patron John H. Myers, were presented with their jewels of office.

The retiring worthy matron's jewel was presented to her by five of her officers in a dialogue called "Lights of Recollections."

Baskets of beautiful flowers and caskets bouquets were presented to both retiring and newly elected officers, and many gifts were presented to the worthy matron and the junior past matron. After the installation of officers the members retired to the Elks' Home where a sumptuous banquet was served to 140.

At the banquet table the retiring worthy matron, Elsie F. Kepler, welcomed the guests and members of the Eastern Star. She then introduced Mrs. Edith Case of Norristown, district deputy of 25A, then Mrs. Florence Plummer, a former deputy of Bristol, and Mrs. Mary Taylor, also former deputy, who was Morning Star's first deputy. All, in their very pleasing manner, expressed pleasure in being at the installation and banquet, and wished for Morning Star continued success.

Music was furnished by members of the Fathers' Association Orchestra.

An entertainment under the direction of Charles Rathke was enjoyed by all.

THE GOOD LOSER

It is said that an Indian never cracks a smile at things which amuse "palefaces" but when misfortune befalls, he laughs. The Indian's way toward the lighter side may not be the better but in refusing to be cast down by misfortune he sets a commendable example.

It may not be necessary to laugh about it. It may be no laughing matter, but to meet reverses standing up and with face to them is the wiser way. Losing money is the excuse for some to go out and kill themselves. Defeat in an undertaking on which one has set one's heart is not pleasant but there is something worse than losing money or meeting defeat. To lose courage to face conditions is worse. Some are spoken of as good losers. That does not mean that they enjoy losing. Nobody does, but in life there are losses and if they come they test the character's genuineness.

The Indian may not be a perfect model in all ways but if he does not stop to mourn over what he cannot help he practices a philosophy that is correct under the circumstances. It's useless to cry over spilt milk, is an old maxim. Far better to hustle around and find some other milk and that is what the individual of resource, the good loser and possessor of courage, does. Few if any great undertakings came to fruition without the promoters meeting with repeated failures while on the way to success. Had they stopped to bewail their ill luck, success never would have been gained.

It takes strength of character, courage, to persist when results are altogether adverse. What is in a person may not be revealed until misfortune befalls. When reverses come one may judge quickly whether courage or weakness is dominant. The world's admiration and sympathy go out to the good loser.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION

American colleges and universities are said by one of their more caustic critics to be losing their sense of values, needlessly cheapening, vulgarizing and mechanizing themselves, and "selling out" intellectually in favor of stenography and toe-dancing, while the public is utterly at sea as to what purposes they serve.

Defenders of the institutions of higher learning see these critics as pedagogical die-hards. They put up a stout defense of their policy of giving greater attention to business, the professions and vocational preparation, frankly admitting that the pursuit of purely intellectual studies is only one purpose of universities. Education here is designed to help young people make the most of their lives as they must live them in this modern age, not as they might have lived them in some classical age centuries ago.

During the last three decades the population of the United States has increased only 58 per cent, while enrollment in high schools has risen 521 per cent and college attendance 417 per cent. The greatest increase has been in the schools of business, mining, engineering and the professions. This fact seems to have a definite relationship to the supremacy of America in the fields of industry and commerce.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:

We are two girls in our early teens, and would like to have your advice. We both have boy friends and the trouble is they call us up every night, and we do not know what to talk to them about. Could you help us to overcome this bashfulness?

Is it proper for a girl to take hold of a boy's arm? When we go out he always holds my arm. Our friends are regular gentlemen and we would like to know if we would harm our reputations by keeping them company, and also talking on the corners after school. We thank you for the advice which you are giving to us.

The "Smarty" Wife Who Draws a Bigger Salary—and Never Fails to Let Husband Know About It

There Can Be No Happiness for Her, Thinks Winifred Black, for Husbands Haven't Yet Usurped the "Aren't You Wonderful" State of Mind.

By WINIFRED BLACK

DOES a woman's pay check buy her husband's self-respect? And throw it out of the window?

Can a man make less money than his wife? And still be happy?

What do you think about it? I don't know what I think.

I'm trying to think right now.

Of course it's all pretty shallow and silly, this putting a money value on everything.

None of the finer things in life can be bought and sold—for money.

You can't buy love, or friendship, or loyalty, or trust, or youth, or beauty, or brains, or a light heart, and a willing mind—in the market place.

There are lots of people who would be glad to buy them if they had to sell, but what would they do when they got the money?

And what would you do, kind sir, and fair lady, without them?...you who were born to your own heritage that nothing on earth can take away from you.

Some of the most brilliant men in the world haven't a grain of sense when it comes to money.

Nobody wants a genius to know the meaning of money.

And it's a good thing that people feel this way about genius.

It saves them from a good deal of disappointment.

Which would you rather have, a voice like Caruso's, a brain like Einstein's, a personality like Mussolini's or a bank account like one of the Vanderbilts?

The 1930 national feed survey of 1,834,513 chicks tells you the kind of a job these thimblefuls do. At six weeks of age, 92 out of every 100 Purina-fed chicks are alive and growing. And they weigh an average of one-fourth of a pound more than other chicks. There's the story for you! SPORTSEXPECTS BIG THINGS
OF PIRATES THIS YEAR

This is the eleventh in a series of 16 stories covering 1931 prospects of National and American Baseball League Teams.

By Charles J. Doyle
(INS Special Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24—Although he realizes the significance of the question mark in his catching department, manager Jewel Ens of the Pirates makes the positive announcement that his club will be a big factor in the coming race in the National League. Ens, by the way, looks for another five-cornered scramble for supremacy with a possibility that Bill McKechnie and his Braves will horn into the mix-up. The fair-haired pilot of the bold buccaneers is convinced the race will involve the Cardinals, Cubs, Giants, Robins and Pirates.

Ens is deeply concerned but not unduly worried about his catchers. He appreciates he has no Hartnett or Wilson, but in Eddie Phillips, former Boston College grid star, who starred for Toronto last summer, Jewell believes he has a smart receiver who can hold up the pitchers. Then he has Rolly Hemsley, who owns as much native ability as any backstopper in the Heydler circuit. Jack Mealey, Wichita graduate, and Hal Finney, a corking recruit from Columbia of the Salle League, complete the receiving division.

The Pirate skipper has given much thought and thought to Phillips, who is no rookie. Eddie has been with several Major League teams and he is nearing the thirtieth milestone in life. Two years ago he jumped off for the Detroit Tigers in a blaze of splendor but after catching about 50 games, during which time the Tigers were very impressive, he went down with a "busted" shoulder.

Phillips is a big, smart fellow who appears to be at his best in jockeying with hitters. In the camp games at Paso Robles, he showed a fine throwing arm and plenty of power at the plate.

Ens mourns the temporary loss of pitcher Steve Swetonic who is through for something like two months with a disabled pitching elbow, yet the Pirate manager is sure his slab staff will stand the grind. He will show you a host of righthanders and lefthanders who he thinks will win consistently.

More or less in the order of their importance the sharpshooters are Remy Kremer, Ervin Braine, Helene Meine, Larry French, Charley Wood, Glenn Spencer, Claude Willoughby, George Grant. Swetonic is considered a big asset to the club, but his status cannot be defined at this time.

Kremer is one of those gents whom you can count upon for something like twenty victories a year. Braine won 17 games last year and he was out ten weeks with sickness. Heine left the club in mid-season on account of ill health. He is in fine form again. French and Wood are two clever southpaws. Spencer is a fast-ball star of much promise. Willoughby pitched gallantly for the lowly Phillies at times. Grant, late of Rochester, is a righthander who has done well in the preparatory season.

Ens expects to show National League fans a fine infield when Sue Grantham, Thevenon and Capt. Traynor do their stuff, its fine foursome and Jewel has a lot of fine reserves for infield duty. He is tickled over the ability of Bill Regan, erstwhile second baseman of the Boston Red Sox. In shortstop Ben Sankey he sports a valuable lad who may be on the way to big things, and he has a sturdy performer in Stuart Clarke. Another very promising recruit is Tony Piet, the Polish infielder from WACO of the Texas League.

The Pirates outfield composed of the Warner brothers and Comorosky speaks for itself. It would be hard to duplicate this fleet, hard-hitting trio. But Ens also is fortified with much secondary strength in the pasture. He will choose two extra fly-chasers from Moloff, Jensen, Dugas and McLanahan, all of whom are impressive.

By Milt GrossKNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
BATTLE ODD FELLOWS

(By T. M. Juno)

It required an extra series before the Knights of Columbus pool team could defeat the Odd Fellows in a tournament played in the club rooms of both organizations. At the end of the regulation number of games both clubs had won five games and so a series of the best of three games was played to determine the winners which was the Knights' team.

In the play-off which decided the series, William Slater, cueist for the K. of C., defeated Howard Fennimore, of the Odd Fellows, by the score of 100 to 85, and James Roache, of the Knights, barely managed to nose out Fred VanSciver of the Odd Fellows by the count of 100 to 95.

In the tournament games the scores were as follows:

L. O. O. F.
Thomas Collier, 78	H. Headley, 100
John Sackville, 78	W. Barr, 100
J. J. Burns, 100	R. Goodshaw, 54
John Barrett, 100	Franklin Smith, 96
Carl Winch, 100	H. Jenkins, 67
Richard Blanch, 48	E. Lynn, 100
Wm. Slater, 100	Robt Sutton, 60
James Roche, 54	H. Fennimore, 100
Jos. Dugan, 72	Fred VanSciver, 100
F. Gilardi, 100	R. Wright, 78

Any organization with a pool team wishing to play the Knights of Columbus should communicate with William Slater of that organization.

Plan New Air-Line At Detroit This Spring

I have the backing of a large motor company. This concern plans to touch Chicago and St. Louis and perhaps Tulsa, Okla., making a strong bid for the airplane traffic of the west and southwest.

Ford Motor Company, it is known, will have its new 34-place ship ready for a trial flight soon. The ship will be used by a new air-line, it is reported. Experiments on this plane have totaled unestimated thousands.

An airplane the price of an automobile has been perfected by the Buell Airplane Company. The plane, small in size, will retail for $1,000. It is claimed that the operation cost is small and is expected to start a boom in aviation sales.

The Detroit Aircraft Company has already drawn up definite plans for the Army's $5,000,000 dirigible. It will start work as soon as the Congressional appropriation reaches its office.

Continental Motor Company expects a $300,000 order from an Ohio airplane company. Negotiations are under way and the deal has almost been consummated.

An intensive sales campaign is planned by Packard Motor Company to market its new Diesel airplane motor. It has spent thousands of dollars in perfecting the power plant for flying purposes.

Backing the aeronautical trend is the state legislature, which has created a state board of aeronautics of five members, the group plans to establish what will be, it is believed, the first chain of state-owned airports. The chain will touch every city of importance in Michigan.

Hitherto, the topography of the state has discouraged any extensive development in aviation. The only landing fields there are what are known as "emergency fields," clearings in the woods, with few facilities.

Flying fields are centered around the Detroit area. Those which have an A-1-A rating by the department of commerce—an A-1-A rating means that the field is equipped with modern facilities, including night flying equipment—are:

Detroit City Airport—It is in the city by which it is owned and operated. It is from here that the only passenger service now available to Detroiters operates. It is five miles from the city hall, a comparatively short distance, and has concrete runways and every facility possible for the convenience of air pilots and travelers.

Here is situated the largest airplane hangar in the world, being built two years ago at a cost of $1,000,000. In this hangar, with 200,000 square feet of floor space, will be held the National Aircraft show from April 11 to 19.

Ford Airport—It is privately owned and operated by the Ford Motor Company. Approximately 10 miles from the city hall, it at one time was the first terminal of air mail service. Passenger service between Chicago and Detroit, operated by the Stout Air Service, has been since discontinued. It has concrete runways and all modern facilities, including night flying equipment.

Packard Airport—It is a part of the Packard proving grounds near the city, privately owned and operated. It is equipped with concrete runways and night flying possibilities. The new Packard airplane motor is being tested on this mammoth lot.

Stinson Airport—It is situated at Wayne, Michigan, about 17 miles from Detroit city hall. Privately owned and operated, it is expected to become the terminal of the Stinson air-line service which may start as early as April 1.

Selfridge Field—It is one of the famous army training stations. It has every possible convenience and provides advanced training for army flyers. Between 60 and 70 pursuit planes are kept here throughout the year.

Grosse Ile—The airport is located 17 miles from Detroit city hall and is privately owned and operated. It has an A-1-A rating from the commerce department and is used mostly by residents of the fashionable Detroit suburb.

Pontiac Airport—It is situated at Pontiac, Michigan, and has an A-1-A rating and so is equipped with facilities for night flying. No passenger service lines originate or terminate there.

The foregoing are the largest airports in the state. Airports are also found in Lansing, Ann Arbor, Mount Clemens, Flint, Grand Rapids, and Ypsilanti, but they have not the facilities of the larger airports.

Marysville, Michigan, near Detroit, is the home of another airport. It is now being improved at a large cost.

Only one passenger line is at present operating in the state of Michigan. It is the Tri-State air service, operating from the Detroit City airport to Chicago, via South Bend, Indiana. Two Michigan cities and flies it to Toledo. In the summer time, it operates hourly excursions to Cleveland but suspends it during the winter. It will do the same this year.
